GANGBALIS FORCED ON EMBOMBED MINERS
LONE SURVIVOR SAVED AFTER 25 DAYS TELLS OF HORRORS IN DEATH CHAMBERS.

Special Cable to Boston American.
PARIS, April 4.—Embombed for twenty-five days, and forced to cannibalism to sustain life, another survivor of the Courrières mine disaster, in which 1,000 miners lost their lives, was rescued today. The miner's name is Barillon, and soon after he was brought to the surface he made the awful confession that when the foot of his embombed companions was exhausted, the men turned cannibals and ate the bodies of the dead. It is reported that sounds of knocking have been heard in some parts of the mine, and additional rescues have been hurried on to save the miners.

First Rescue on Friday.
The rescue today is regarded as even more miraculous than the rescue on Friday last of thirteen other embombed miners, not only because Barillon had existed for twenty-five days under ground, but also because the other men were buried—buried because of the fact that they were not rescued until they were found by the explosion which ended the disaster.

The rescue today may be most directly attributed to the determination of the French government to save every man who had been found in this pit that the women of the mine had been found in the pit. State Hears Boston American's Charges;
COAL TRUST ON RACK

Recent Price Raised as "Expedient" That Might Prove an Error Admits Chief.

Photographs Submitted Showing Immense Supplies Stored in Boston Yards.

The statement by President Edward Russell of the Metropolitan Coal Company that the advance in the price of coal for a "temporary expedient" which might prove to be an error, was an important piece of testimony at today's hearing of the BOSTON AMERICAN'S charges against that company before Secretary of State Olin.

In his opening address Attorney J. T. Auerbach stamped the increase of the price of coal from $1 to $1.75 per ton as "an expedient of modern commercial legislation, a piece of mercantile expediency, an expedient, but not a permanent one."

The American's charges against that company before Secretary of State Olin.

"Nothing Important to Us," Says Baer.

What George F. Baer said in the conference: "There was nothing but talk, talk. The miners talked at great length without coming any practical point. They talked of the brotherhood of man and rights of the laboring classes, but didn't propose a single amelioration. They suggested nothing. It was a talk filled with glittering generalities."

"Was any suggestion made the operators?" was asked. "The operators had nothing to say. They came here to hear what the miners had to say."

"Was any suggestion made the suspension of mining would be continued?"

"It was not even mentioned. There was not a single sensible suggestion. They told tales of mines and talked a great deal, but that was all. There was nothing to do of any importance."

POSSIBILITY OF COAL SETTLEMENT GROWS STRONGER

NEW YORK, April 4.—The anthracite miners' scale committee met today at the United House to prepare plans for bringing some time before all the questions that lie about a settlement of the differences, argued and each side make its position plain. Sweetheart of Dead Boy Witness Today in Trial of Mrs. Cooper to Describe Anonymous Warning in Woman's Handwriting.

AUGUSTA, Me. April 4.—Anonymous letter of a threatening character, written in a woman's hand, were received by Miss Marion Carey just after Charles D. Northey began to divert his attention from Mrs. Alice F. Cooper to her.

This young woman on the witness stand to-day in the trial of Mrs. Alice F. Cooper for the alleged murder of Charles D. Northey will be asked to tell all about these letters, and then counsel for the prosecution will try to trace them to their author.

In the letters Miss Carey was warned that she would never be permitted to marry Northey, and that if she did not have him stop his attentions to her some harm would befall the young man.

Girl Was Alarmed.

So strong were the letters that the girl was terrified. She showed them to her father and he ordered her to burn them. Some of the threats were written also on postal cards. Several people saw the writing and they will be called upon to compare it with that of Mrs. Cooper.

Special to the Boston American.

AUGUSTA, Me. April 4.—Mockery, giggles, friends, neighbors and neighborhood gossip are not having their laughs at the trial of Mrs. Alice F. Cooper, charged with the murder of Charles Northey.

The awful facts that Northey and Mrs. Cooper went into a room together and that they both occupied a hammock at the same time have been divulged on the witness stand by women who were also members of the same society, and who have been friends and neighbors of the accused woman ever since she has lived in North Augusta, some fifteen years.

At the opening of the afternoon session the first of the mockers and giggles, and then as started to drive home, one road taking as past John Cooper's place who was then and is still alongside the road, and who was hysterical and nervous, it was Cooper who the mother was her.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP TRIUMPHS, SAYS DUNNE

CHICAGO MAYOR SAYS CITY WILL SOON OWN ITS STREET CARS.

By Mayor Dunne.
By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, April 4.—It is now a question of time when the city of Chicago will own by own street cars, the vital issue of the campaign, viz, the right of the city to own $75,000,000. Much trouble has for the payment of street railway property, was caused by a majority of $200 in spite of the enormous trouble fund spent by the traction interests. The total vote was 110,000.

The proposition for the operation of the city electric system had a majority of 10,751, this being more of the three-fifths vote required for the passage of the measure.

The third proposition, providing that no franchises be granted to any street car company, was defeated by a majority of 3,575.

I admit that I am disappointed in the fact that the measure did not carry through out. But the important proposition at the present time is for the city to carry out the plan as it is being carried. In view of the

The measure, which cost $75,000,000 with which to acquire existing transit facilities triumphed.

In addition twenty-one out of thirty-five aldermen voted in favor of the municipal ownership platform.

The measure was introduced by Alderman C. J. O'Connell, and was decided adversely, because, although the majority of the popular vote premonitions opposition against these propositions by all the newspapers of Chicago except the Heard papers and the non-committal attitude of most of the other papers, and in view of the fact that the efforts of the Republican party, with those of a party, powerful enough to control the city, were combined to defeat the ordinance, it was required a 60 per cent. vote, and this was not secured.

This by no means forbids our applicants to keep simply for a short time regarding this reform. The all-important fact is that Chicago decides to appropriate the money for the purchase, and councils must immediately proceed to acquire the roads.

The payment for the three properties was $1,000,000. That proposal was carried, withstood the free distribution of $1,000,000 sent here by Morgan. It killed the salaried interests, who voted solely against it, because the Aldermen voting for municipal ownership in the council also voted for an increase of the $300 salary increase to $1,000.

The result is generally conceded to be a great victory for William Randolph Hearst's papers in this city, the Examiner and the American. They stood out almost

ACRESS STRIPPED OF STOLEN FINERY IN A POLICE STATION

Disrobed at Newton, Matron Is Forced to Cloth Pretty Chorus Girl.

Member of Excellent Canadian Family Sentenced to Term at Sherborn.

Found guilty of theft from her room mate and sentenced to Sherborn, Miss Florence Earle, an actress, was stripped of the plundered clothes in the Newton police station, for the woman she had robbed and had to be robed by the matron before she could be transported to the woman's reformatory. All her finery was ruthlessly torn from her, the hand some cost, the black silk waist and skirt and even the stockings she wore.

Captured in New York, where she was seeking employment, she confessed truth fully that she had stolen clothing and money from the lodging house at No. 24 Centre place, Newton, in police court this morning she had recovered her equanimity and appeared calmly unconcerned as to her fate.

Comes of Good Family.
She is said to have come from an ex cellent family in Canada, and had been on the stage as a chorus girl in several companies.

A few weeks ago she took lodgings at the Centre place house, which is owned by Mrs. Samuel Tyle. She was to sign a room with Miss Mary Leeson. A few days ago she disappeared from Newton, and it was discovered that Miss Leeson and Mrs. Tyle had been robbed of their money. Miss Earle was partic ular in choosing what she carried away. Nothing but the finest of clothing, such as silk waists and skirts and shoes, had attracted her. She admitted taking $25 in cash from her room mate and $25 from the landlady.

Adorned With Diamonds.
She had hardly been sentenced when Mrs. Leeson and Mrs. Tyle entered the station and demanded the return of the stolen finery.

Miss Earle is twenty years old and a remarkably handsome girl. Just previous to taking a room with Mrs. Tyle she was at the "Eden," a Newton house. When arrested in court she wore con siderable jewelry, including two beautiful diamond rings.

Voliva, in Defence, Threatens to Expose Sins of the De posed Prophet.

ACTION AT CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, April 4.—John Alexander Dove, with every feeling aroused to the highest degree, is on his way to Zion City. He will make a desperate effort to regain the control wrested from him by the administrative body of his church.

Dove sent a telegram from his home in Boston, Mass., directing Deacon Barnes, his general counsel, to cancel Deputy Attorney W. G. Voliva's power of attorney and appointing Fielding H. White in his stead. White is Dove's only friend in Zion City.

There was a conference held at his residence in Boston, Mass., directed by Deacon Barnes, his general counsel, to cancel Deputy Attorney W. G. Voliva's power of attorney and appointing Fielding H. White in his stead. White is Dove's only friend in Zion City.

Voliva and his scheme do not believe Dove will be willing to go into court and suffer an exposure of details of his private life.

At a conference that continued late into the night Dove and his advisers made plans to recede Dove's offer to regain control of the Zion City property. Every stage of the litigation that must ensue in the event of a suit for the skeletons in Dove's family closet have their light that are expected to prove un pleasant.

SWIFT ON TRIAL FOR SECOND TIME
The second trial of Thomas J. Swift of Somerville, formerly an assistant Canadian janitor of the postoffice building, on the charge of receiving money for aiding to secure a government contract, was begun in the United States Circuit court today before Judge Dodge and a jury. In the previous trial the judge dismissed.

JOHNSON-DUHAN DRAW.
NEW YORK, April 4.—Eddie Johnson and Jack Duhan, both from this city, had it out in the main struggle before the Morrisania Athletic Club tonight. Johnson had the advantage in weight, but Duhan seemed the stronger of the two. It was a fast, nerve-racking fight, with hard blows. Both men were fresh at the end of a draw would have been a fair decision.

Headache and Neuritis from Cold.
LAWRENCE, Mass., April 4.—The cold and flu season is still going strong, and many are suffering from headache and neuritis. It is said that the cure for these ailments is to keep the head warm and dry, and to use a good remedy for the cold.

GIRL'S SUIT FOR HEART BALM IS AMAZING CITY

Political Upheaval Threatened in Lawrence When Dis closures Are Made at Trial.

PROMINENT MEN INVOLVED

LAWRENCE, April 4.—Starting revelations, it is said, will be made which will involve the names of various prominent men and women of the city when the French of promise suit brought against Mr. George H. Black by Miss Helen K. Stanley is aired at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

This investigation, it is believed, will reveal that a vote of censure has been passed against the city official circles that will in all probability result in a political upheaval.

On the surface the case appears only as a plain attempt upon the part of a pretty young woman to get $25,000 as a bride or her wounded heart.

Plot, Says Physician.
Mr. Black is about thirty-three years of age. He has been a doctor for three years. He is the city physician and he declares that the action of Miss Stanley was taken for the sole purpose of making him lose his position.

Miss Stanley is a fine-looking girl of twenty-five. She has acted as a nurse of the City Hospital, of which her father, Dr. Stanley, is the superintendent.

It is said that the handsome young doctor did a great deal of his courting at the hospital when the white-aproned and white-gowned nurse was supposed to have been attending to the needs of the patients.

The Debate Between Harvard and Yale on Municipal Ownership

Harvard and Municipal Ownership Won—OF COURSE

The Harvard debating team and the Yale debating team met, three on each side, to discuss municipal ownership in New York City.

Harvard undertook to prove that New York should have municipal ownership of its street railways; Yale took the other side, and Yale was declared beaten.

One of the young gentlemen wrote to this newspaper for advice as to what he should say in favor of municipal ownership. The reply was, as it was not possible to say anything intelligent AGAINST municipal ownership it ought not to be hard to argue in favor of it.

Many young men interested in debating were asking for suggestions on the municipal ownership question.

We believe that it is an excellent thing for young men to spend their time in EARNEST discussion. This sharpens the wit, makes knowledge ready at short notice and it develops human faculties along the right lines.

It is encouraging to read that the debate between Harvard and Yale drew as big a crowd as an ordinary intercollegiate football game. It is a good sign of development among young men when they can take as great interest in combats of the mind as in fights between powerfully constructed bodies.

This is no argument against football, for this newspaper believes in vigorous and even combative games for very young people, provided actual violence and danger to life or health be eliminated.

The young human animal must go through the animal stage, in which physical combat is the great delight, and should not be deprived of the opportunity to exercise a faculty and an "attraction" which means so much to health and capacity later.

Among the young men of AMATEUR years—the men of twenty-one or two or three and older—there should be interest in mental combat at least as intense as the interest which the lads feel in struggles over a football.

We wish that the young men who read this newspaper—those just out of college and those that have never been to college—would take the advice we have often given and organize debating societies among themselves. A half dozen or even two or three can make a good beginning.

Take up anything you please.

Take up municipal ownership, for instance, and to begin with, lay down a few preliminary questions of this sort:

Isn't it true the value of a street railway depends entirely upon the number of human beings living in the city?

If the human beings create by sheer numbers the value of a street franchise or other monopoly, SHOULD NOT THAT FRANCHISE OR MONOPOLY BELONG TO THEM?

Isn't it a fact that every baby born in a great city means on an average ten more cents a day paid over to the street cars? Isn't it ridiculous that each new child should mean ten cents more income for a man who is not doing anything for the public?

Shouldn't each new child mean A CONTRIBUTION TO THE PROSPERITY AND WELFARE OF ALL?

Isn't it a fact that when a private individual owns a street railway his idea is to GET as much money as he can and GIVE as little as possible in return?

Isn't it evident that the public will only get the best service when it owns its own monopolies and operates them FOR ITS OWN BENEFIT?

Isn't it plain that if a private owner of a public monopoly can take fifty cents a day out of the wages of his men EVERY MAN EMPLOYED MEANS AN EXTRA PROFIT TO HIM OF A HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS A YEAR?

And isn't it plain that the only way to insure proper treatment of labor is to have the men working for a concern which they own in part themselves and which has no interest in cheating them out of a fair day's pay?

We shall be glad to hear from any of our readers that may decide to take up this idea of debating among themselves. We shall gladly give suggestions to those who ask for them.

To Every Member of a Labor Union

Here is a chance to help the members of the Lampshades' Union to obtain better conditions. It is offered to the laborer of organized labor and of the Lampshades, sign the blank, cut it out and forward it to Thomas E. Corbin, president of Lampshades' Union, No. 72 Palmer street, Boston.

To The Honorable JOHN F. FITZGERALD,
Mayor of the City of Boston.

We, the undersigned citizens and taxpayers of the city of Boston, respectfully request that when the contract with the Rising Sun Lighting Company for the lighting of the public streets shall expire, no new contract with said company or any other party shall be entered into by the city of Boston, but that the city of Boston shall therefore return to the former system of the management of the lighting of its streets.

The Wail of the Consumer

By James J. Montague

I RATHER like to purchase coal. At twenty dollars per; Although it puts me in the hole, 'Tis not mine to demur.

FOR I and my kind are on earth to struggle. The trust owner's keen sense of humor; And we play but our parts when we serve as a joke; I'm only a humble consumer.

LIKE to know that ice is high. And still is going higher; And when an ounce of ice I buy I hold in check my ire.

THE belief that the earth was created for men. Is merely an unfounded rumor—Which Buer has exploded again—and again— To cheer the poor, luckless consumer.

I HOPE to see the price of meat. From present indications (As well as all that mortals eat, Beyond my aspirations.

AND if on the Common some fair summer day. A lynx-eyed detective shall find me And drag me, protesting and starving, away. I'm just a consumer, don't mind me.

Remarks
By Rev. Charles A. Crane
(Pastor PEOPLE'S TEMPLE)

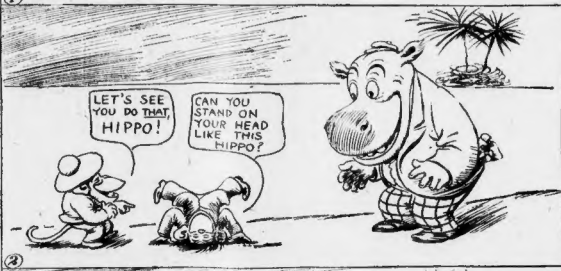

DOGS are not permitted to enter the Public Garden. They are permitted to enter the street cars and sit upon the seats. The dogs would certainly vote for private ownership of public property if they could.

We heretofore bemoaned the cost of coal. We are now bemoaning the situation even if we are unable to buy coal.

If you think the world has gone mad with greed, you will be cured by going out to Mission Street Methodist Episcopal Church this week, and looking at 250 preachers who will take marching orders at the annual conference there in season. They break and butter and all they hold sacred will be handed for them by others, and a bigger lot of men you will seldom see.

Self-Respect, Self-Reliance and Inborn Honor

Of Debt Are a Greater Heritage Than Wealth

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1905, by American Journal Examplar.

As we grow older we realize more and more the value of the old principles of truth, honor and virtue, taught us in our youth.

As we grow to feel great charity for those who were not given this fundamental basis of education.

There was a time in my life when I deemed it an unkindness of Fate that denied me the advantages of money in early youth.

Like all young egotists, I believed myself particularly fitted to enjoy and properly use such advantages.

As I looked about me, and saw the relative of many such fellows, which I then enjoyed, I felt that Providence had been both unwise and unkind in its choice of people for the bestowment of its benefits.

Not then had the great truth which alone makes God just, the truth of reincarnation of the soul in many lives, impressed itself upon me. Not then had I come to the knowledge that each soul is directed to its own environment here, by former deeds and thoughts, and that by thoughts and acts in this life, it is changing its present and deciding its future environment.

Three Valuable Assets
BUT now, in the light of experience, I know that three things taught me in my early life were greater in worth than any inheritance of wealth or fortune.

These three things were the value of self-respect, self-reliance and independence of spirit.

The poorest parents on earth can teach their children these three things. It needs only the frequent repetition of them by older associates.

If you have children under your care, whether you be parent or teacher, impress upon them the necessity to be able to respect themselves rather than to look for empty honors gained at the price of self-respect; to cultivate worthy uses and live open lives, and to hide nothing from the world that would bring them shame if known.

Teach them to believe in themselves; in their ability to achieve results, and to attain noble goals; and teach them to be happy in the doing and work at any occupation, no matter how menial, rather than incur debt.

Without this foundation of character, no man can ever be happy. The man who does not respect himself, is handicapped all through life, no matter what advantages fortune may bestow.

The standards of the world can never make happy the man who does not respect himself.

Don't Go Into Debt
THE misery of the world can never render miserable the man who does respect himself and who knows his life is above reproach, however life may be misunderstood.

Opportunity can do little for the man who has no belief in himself. He will miss the best goals in his reach and fail of attaining his highest possibilities through lack of confidence.

The man who believes in himself will seize his own opportunities.

Fate cannot so handicap or hinder him that he will fail.

Fortune, however capricious, will never make any man independent, who has no inbred horror of debt.

He who is miserable and who is a slave of disgrace will know the full meaning of that word "Independence" and all it implies, however meagre may be his resources.

Self-respect, self-reliance, independent action—teach your children these three qualities, add love, faith and cheerfulness, and you have equipped them for life's battles better than if you had bestowed only titles and fortune upon them.
